

On December 21, 2017, a scientific and methodical meeting «Media School of a Modern Teacher» was held. The supervisor was L.Petryk, a senior lecturer of Foreign Languages and Methodology Department. The topic «Implementation of media technologies into the process of learning foreign languages» was presented for the discussion according to the work plan.

In class students discussed the classification of media technologies. The effectiveness of each type in teaching foreign languages to junior pupils was determined. The focus was on media technology with visual support, clusters and time lines in particular

Future teachers created time lines, considered the practical significance of their application, and projected possible situations for the coordination learning activities in foreign language lessons in primary school.
